

Consumers have the right to make "fair use" of the content that is received in their homes. The FCC should not mandate encryption standards that prevent a consumer from using a VCR or other device to record content for future viewing.

I support fair use and consumer protection, and do not support "corporate lockdown" over my television set. My votes will reflect this in the future.